School Notes.

Harry M. Wheeler, the sub-master in the high school, closes his labors here one week from this Friday, when he returns to his studies at Harvard.

The examinations in the English classes will be given next week.

The school committee have engaged the services of Don J. Gould as sub-master for next term. Mr. Gould is a Bowdoin graduate, class of 1903. He has been for two years principal of Hartland Academy. He is a specialist in mathematics, English, elocution and comes very highly recommended.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wires, Jr., were recently called to Lynn to attend the funeral of a son, or rather of a daughter, who died of blood poisoning. Mr. Wires returned the first of this week and his wife will remain in Lynn for awhile.

The Royal Arch degree was worked at the Oxford Chapter last Wednesday evening. Right Excellent Grand Sorber, James E. Parsons of Ellsworth, was present. Among those present out of town were Lewis Lewist, Magalloway; Ernest Bennett, Errol; Carl Dudley, A. D. Holt, C. L. Heath, S. M. Perham, E. J. Mann, Bryant's Pond.

Last Sabbath was "Parents' Day" for the junior League and a good number of parents and friends gathered at 3 p. m. and were greatly interested in the faithful work of the children, and Clara Connor, the superintendent, explained the topic in a very impressive manner by the use of the megaphone. The former superintendent, Gertrude Beazley, was also present.

Will Cote was in Auburn, Saturday. Irving Perry has been on the sick list. Fred Locke has moved into the Crooker house.

Beatrice Stevens is at home sick with a bad cold.

G. N. Tubbs was in Gorham, N. H., the past week.

The snow which fell recently is a very welcome visitor.

Frank Mayo was at home from the woods over Sunday.

The freshman class, N. H. S., took up Roman history, Monday.

Guy Cotto is cutting wood on Partridge Bros' lot, Pleasant street.

Mrs. Quinsey Pratt is on the sick list. Mrs. G. H. Bennett is helping her.

Mrs. B. R. Bradbury's mother, Mrs. Olive Young of Bethel, has suffered a second shock.

Rev. J. H. Littlefield, of South Paris, will preach at the Universalist church Sunday morning.

Carl Ross has a large bump on his nose caused by coming in rather forcibly contact with a polo ball, while playing on Saturday.

Mrs. H. A. Packard of Bethel has been visiting in Norway this week. She will also visit in South and West Paris before her return.

All who have not sent in their quotations for the Book of Quotations, published in the interest of the Universalist fair, will please send same to Mrs. W. F. Jones, by Saturday evening.

The Bible class will meet at the Universalist parlance, Friday evening, of this week. There will also be a meeting of the members of the church at the close of the Bible class session.

All boys interested in railroad stories should get the new book, at the public library, entitled "A Young Section Hand." It is a fine story written by Burton Stephenson. It is equal to "We Win" with which most of the boys are familiar.

A regular voyage of Oxford Lodge, No. 1, Ark Mariners of Maine, will be launched in Masonic hall, Wednesday evening, Feb. 14, at 7:30. The officers elect will be installed by Sovereign Grand Master, Alfred S. Kimball. A social smoke talk will take place after the ark is moored.

"Here is something you want Mr. Sanborn," said he and found it was. They were earth worms, plain, every-day-of-the-year angle-worms, such as delights the heart of a fisherman and tempts the speckled beauties in their haunts. Elbridge Walker presented them, and they were captured by him while digging out a frozen water pipe. We have use for them on the farm.

Four Simple Rules

Follow Them and Health, Happiness and Prosperity Will be Yours.

If one would be healthy, happy and prosperous, follow these four simple rules. (1) Keep the bowels open every day. (2) Chew your food slowly and thoroughly. (3) Avoid indigestible foods. (4) If there are any symptoms of stomach troubles, take Mi-o-na before each meal until cured.

No matter how many years you may have suffered with stomach troubles or how worried by sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of appetite, furred tongue, specks before the eyes, headaches, backaches, weakness and debility, indigestion or other ills that are caused by a weak stomach, you can be cured by the faithful use of Mi-o-na.

Take one of the little tablets before each meal with the fixed determination to get the most benefit out of it. Mi-o-na is not a facsimile, it is not a cure all. It is a scientific remedy recommended for one trouble—weakness of the digestive organs. It is a permanent cure, and is sold by Noyes Drug Store under a guarantee that it costs nothing unless it does all that is claimed for it.

When Mi-o-na has been used for a few days, the digestive system will be so greatly improved that all the food eaten is converted into nutrition, so that nourishment and health are given to the whole system and there is a rapid increase in weight, strength and spirits.

A Love Message

To the Southwest Wind.

Blow, Southwest wind, blow!

Blow not as you go

Over valleys and hills,

Over rivers and rills,

And a heart's message bear

To my lady-love fair,

Telling her how dearly I love her.

Blow, Southwest wind, blow!

Till you reach the hillside

Where my heart's joy and pride

Is known to reside,

Then kiss her without fear,

And no obstacles heed,

For this message of love

Is important indeed,

For until she's my wife

There's no happiness for me in life,

So her loving place try to discover.

HIRAM.

Death of Aged Man

James Day, an aged man of Porter, died Thursday, aged 88 years, 8 months.

On October 10 he visited his daughter,

Mrs. Robbins, by travelling three miles to greet her contracted a cold which developed in pneumonia and for a number of weeks they hadn't much hope of his recovery, but on Dec. 17 he had his home and appeared quite well until the 28th when he took the measles and lived only a few days.

Mr. Day was married twice. His first wife, Lydia J. Lowell, died over 40 years ago. They had eight children four of whom are now living. His second wife,

Emma Sargent, and their six children survive him.

The funeral was held at the Lord schoolhouse conducted by Elder Clough, who spoke comforting words to the believed family. Interment in the Lord cemetary.

Engene Wadsworth is in poor health.

Mrs. Llewellyn Hartford is convalescent.

Hiram Creamery have had their ice put in.

Mrs. Marshall Spring if stopping with

Mrs. Henry Burbank.

Francis Gilpatrick lost his buildings

by fire Thursday night.

Ellsworth Dunham is building a large hen house for James Kidlon.

Herbert Goodwin visited his mother,

Mrs. Alice Goodwin this week.

Will Locklin and family have moved into the Chas. Clemmons' house.

Emmie Ridlon is stopping with her son, Chas. G. Ridlon, this winter.

R. N. Lowell had his leg injured seriously by a log rolling from a parade on to him.

Austin Storor has sold his buildings to William Sargent and has bought a house in East Hiram.

Mrs. Renben Moulton, who went west

a few weeks ago, was taken sick and remains in poor health.

Mrs. L. S. Lowell and daughter Lottie

True and Mrs. Lois Pierce visited Mrs.

Jane Lowell, Thursday.

We are in receipt of a grasshopper story by Irving Frost and is not the only hopper story that has come to our ears

this January. On Jan. 30 a grasshopper was seen near Saco river by George H.

Goodwin and others and did hop about as lively as one would in July, also striped squirrels were seen in many places, and spring birds, and if the warm weather continues we will see hawks carrying off chickens.

RUMFORD FALLS.

Hon. W. W. Stetson, State Superintendent of Schools, will address the teachers of Rumford at a near date.

The Continental Paper Bag mill has been somewhat hindered by the lack of electric power due to the installing of the dynamo at the power station.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Day, who have been at the Broadway Central, New York City, for two weeks, left Thursday for Pinehurst, N. C., for a brief stay for the benefit of Mr. Day's health.

The ladies are preparing "comfort bags" to be sent to the lumbermen at the camp.

The Rumford Falls Band association are to give a fair in the near future to add to the fund for purchasing band uniforms.

The Concert of Nations is to be at Elks Theatre this Friday evening. This is gotten up under the auspices of the Methodists.

Measles are prevalent among the school children. There are also a few cases of diphtheria, that have been quar-antined by the board of health.

A distemper is going the rounds here.

In most instances the joints are affected becoming so stiff and lame that the patient suffers considerably. In some cases the soreness settles in the region of the stomach. The affliction is of but brief duration, two days being the average run of the disease.

OTISFIELD.

With the Woodpiles.

G. A. Dyer is sawing wood with his gasoline engine for the people about here as is also B. S. Moors. The latter made a record one day by sawing 17½ cords between eight in the morning and five at night.

Your correspondent has a great variety of woods in his woodpile and has listed them as follows: Yellow birch, white birch, grey birch, red oak, maple, beech, pine, (white) fir, hackmatack, poplar, willow, alder, wild cherry, black cherry, spruce, white ash, apple-tree, moosewood, elm, hemlock, and some basswood will be added later. Can anybody else beat it?

G. A. Dyer has been to Lewiston.

Lillian Gould of Gray has been the guest for two weeks of her cousin, Mrs. G. B. Turner.

There was a baked bean supper at W. O. Turner's Friday evening, Feb. 2nd, proceeds to go toward the new fence to be erected around the Bell Hill cemetery.

WEST BUCKFIELD.

Mrs. Alice Taylor is at home again. Those who have been sick are better. May Farrar returned to Auburn last week.

Fred Cooper lost one of his span of new horses.

There was a dance at O. D. Warren's, Jan. 27, a good time.

Jennie Bonney spent a week with her sister, Mrs. Dan Emery at Buckfield.

S. M. Bonney has received the sad news of the death of his uncle, Ed. Bonney of Bath.

Irvin Abbott, Hebron who has been at work for J. Alton Hibbs, broke his ankle while loading wood in the woods.

White Mountain History.

Incidents in the Early Exploration of the White Hills.

By ELIZA RIX SPAULDING.

One of the records of history is that the first to discover the defiles of the White mountains was Darby Field, who entered the valley of the Ellis river, thence to the ridge of Mount Washington, called Boot Spur, leading him to the 40 acres, now called Bigelow lawn. There were many explorers dating from 1725, and Indians for the 21 years following. A story is told of how Timothy Kild, first whom the wild and rushing stream was named, chased a moose, only to be disappointed at its escape into a narrow defile or trail of savages, thus gaining the other side in safety.

There were many narrow paths in the woods and President Dwight has said that many were caused by convulsions of nature and may be far back in the annals of the world. In fact, this region is to-day of the greatest significance.

Abel Crawford has been rightly called the patriarch of the white hills. He was born in 1705 and married a daughter of Eleazar Rosebrook, and they made their home in a log hut on the huge hill called "Giants' Grave." At times the weather was so cold that the water would never drip from the eaves when the sun shone, and the snow so deep that often the entrance to the home could not be thrust. Living depended on game and thus was produced the famous "Crawford's Game."

A story of the recorded history deals with descendants of these, and one, Leo Rosebrook.

Leo Rosebrook was born in Carroll, at the White Mountain house, in 1829, the son of Phineas and Sophronia Tuttle. Rosebrook whose ancestors are said to have come over on the Mayflower. He was on Mount Washington when the first house was built. This building was run for two years by Samuel F. Spaulding, Mitchell Rosebrook and Joseph Ball. J. H. Mitchell and S. F. Spaulding were proprietors later.

On the first day of September, 1855, Leo Rosebrook went to the spring 40 rods down the mountain and there found a party by the name of Bourne, a gentleman, George Bourne, and his niece, Lizzie Bourne of Kennebunk. They had started for the summit when the day was warm and comfortable, and at 2 o'clock had walked from the log house kept by J. M. Thompson, to where the carriage road was then completed. At 4 o'clock they left the carriage road to complete the journey by the bridge path. At that time the sky was bright and they were in good spirits.

Shortly after a fierce gale sprang up and they struggled until after sunset. Miss Bourne showed signs of exhaustion and in the darkness it was impossible to proceed further. When the two sons of S. R. Spaulding went down the hill at 5 o'clock, before the storm set in, they passed them and they seemed to be making good progress and were within two miles of the summit house. They were evidently unconscious of their nearness to the summit when the storm came up, and although Mr. Bourne tried his best to shelter them from the terrors of the night and storm, he was unsuccessful and Miss Bourne died of heart failure.

Leo Rosebrook is now a resident of Lancaster, N. H. He is hale and hearty at 77. He often drives a horse that is a very fast stepper one with a record as a trotter, and these appear on the road with a 16 month's old colt, driving with as much skill as a professional jockey.

When Mr. Rosebrook was a young lad he was sent by his father through the notch with a number of horses to a hotel on the other side. Harry Crawford came along with a coach and horses. He gave young Rosebrook an extensive fishing outfit, and set the lad angling for trout in the rapid mountain stream.

At first young Rosebrook was timid but went to his work and soon had plenty of fish. In the meantime a large female bear put in an appearance, which did not add to the enjoyment of fishing. But the bear soon walked off into the woods and appeared to take no notice of the young fisherman. He was, therefore, able to secure two large strings of fish. While watching the old bear he saw two add to the fund for purchasing band uniforms.

He pulled one string of fish from the water and then to the astonishment of Crawford, caught the young cubs and put them in the bottom of the coach. He then pulled another large string of fish from the water and started cheerfully for home, laden with game of fish and beast.

WEST MINOT.

James Thomas has moved to South Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hodgdon has been in Lewiston; also Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Thomas.

Mrs. H. W. Beauce was in Auburn, Wednesday and Thursday.

The Young brothers have just built them an ice house.

Cyrus Thurlow of Paris has been in the place.

Mrs. Rose Atwood was in Auburn, Friday and Saturday.

The Turner Dramatic Club played to a full house here.

O. E. Allen has been confined to the house with pleurisy.

Mrs. E. A. Atwood returned from Auburn where she has been since November. She is very much improved in health.

A LUCKY FATHER AND SON.

The following narrative of the suffering of a father and son will prove interesting to the readers of this paper. G. C. Bartholomew, of Bethel, Me., says: "I located in this place several years ago, having formerly resided in Troy, N. Y. I was a great sufferer from what the physicians of Troy called BRIGHT'S DISEASE."

As a last resort I commenced the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. The result is a little short of a miracle. All the terrible symptoms of this disease are gone. I do not have any more difficulty in voiding the urine, no pain or ache in the small of the back, no more constipation or other symptoms of disease of the kidneys, liver or bladder.

So you see, help came to me in Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Who would begrudge the cost of this medicine (One dollar a bottle) for such a blessing or refuse this token of gratitude, for being perfectly cured? And I hope my writing this will induce others who suffer from kidney or blood disorder to use the medicine. My son George suffered for many years with a fever sore on his leg. He used one bottle of this medicine and part of another, and as sure as I am writing this grateful acknowledgment, his leg is entirely healed up.

The Ideal.

"A good man in the direct grasp of ill, His consciousness of right, and strength of will, Full of it is the good and pure I mean, That meet temptation in its luring sheen; And ever the one truly strive, I know He need not fail except he will it so."

For perfect souls we oft have looked in vain, And 'tis not this we hope for, in the main. 'Tis not divine alone that we demand, 'Tis nobler human nature, rightly planned, Who strives to scale the lofty mountain height. Who many an obstacle impedes his onward flight.

'Tis he who wins, who, meeting strong desire, Yet keeps within his heart that living fire Of virtue, not unmixed with human love, And love divine, that cometh from above, With high ideal; Ah! may this lot be mine Most perfect blend of human and divine.

Those Early buds made the mistake of their lives.

The Youth's Companion sagely observes that this is the month when we talk the least and men do the least work.

About this time of year those worthy and aspiring citizens who hanker to be candidates for town office at the coming March meetings, begin to show a more kindly interest in their neighbor's welfare and to throw out dark hints about "the ring" which has been controlling town affairs and piling up the burden of taxation.

The Oxford county farmers are sending eggshells to Boston. As January, approached the farmers began to bring eggs in such abundance as to puzzle the storekeepers. They shipped "fresh eggs" by the crate to Boston. Instead of selling their eggs last summer when they were lowest, many farmers salted them down in barrels like pork. These eggs keep well, and the idea will develop into a new industry.

New England manufacturers of shoes at a meeting in Boston, last week decided that they must advance the price of footwear of all kinds. The increased cost of shoe leather is the principal reason assigned for the proposed advance, and it is explained that there is a bigger demand for leather than ever before, because races that formerly went barefooted or wore sandals are now demanding and wearing leather shoes. If an increased consumption of this product is responsible for an advance in price it is time to call home our missionaries.

Mrs. Mary I. Wood, secretary of the general federation of women's clubs, and a resident of Portsmouth, proposes to find out whether club duties tend to undermine home life, as is frequently charged nowadays, and with this end in view is sending out circulars to every club throughout the country, asking how many members are married; how many are mothers; how many children they have and how many young children. As soon as Mrs. Wood's statistics are completed we shall know where to legislate against women's clubs in order to prevent race suicide.

In a comfortable camp on the stage road from Norway to Waterford, lives C. H. Merritt, Oxford county's veteran woodsman, the man who has saved, split and piled three cords of hard wood in less than nine hours. Just at present he holds the position of road commissioner for South Waterford, but it is in his cheery cabin that he sits by the fireplace and reminisces of olden days. There isn't a man in Oxford County at least, declare the local woodchoppers, who dares contest with Mr. Merritt for the championship in chopping wood. At the age of 16 he began his career in the logging swamps, and at 60 he isn't taking any back seat in the wood business.

A Winter of Long Ago.

Cotton Mather Describes It and the Great Storms That Came.

The following article was contributed to the Portland Evening Express by Norman Libby of Bridgton. It tells the story of a winter differing materially from the present, but should prove interesting reading.

These people who have been enjoying the mildness of this season are often given the warning: "Winter never rots in the sky." The impression, however, is very general that the average quantity of snow has greatly diminished in America, and in support of this assertion one has only to listen in a country store to hear stories of storms that baffled description. One man tells of a storm after which 20 oxen in one team with difficulty "broke out" the roads. But it must be remembered that very severe storms occur only at rare intervals and that the Puritans did not always, as we sometimes like to think of them, step out of upper windows upon the snow.

But that the present season has been of unusual kindness no one will deny. From an old diary before me I read: "January, 1861, snow six feet on a level in many parts of Maine and New Hampshire and in particular spots drifts three times that depth."

The following extract from the correspondence of Cotton Mather may not be read without interest. It is said to be the best description extant of the great snow of February, 1717.

An Horrid Snow.

"The' we are gott so far forward as the beginning of another Winter, yett we have not forgotten ye last, which at the latter end whereof we were entertained attended with a Snow which was uncommon enough to afford matter for a letter from us. Our winter was not so bad as that wherein Tacitus tells us that Corbulo made his expedition against the Parthians, not that which proved so fatal to ye Romans & Ulpian, ye days of ye Emperor Justinian, & that ye very Fishes were killed under ye freezing sea, when Phocas did as much, ye men whom Tyrants treat like ye Fishes of ye sea."

But ye conclusion to our Winter was hard enough, and was too formidable to be easily forgotten & of a piece with what you had in Europe a year before. It is now ye chief thing that made it so. For Tho' rarely done a winter pass wherein we may not say with Pliny Iugens Hyeme Nivis apud nos copia, yett our last winter brought with it a Snow that excelled them all.

The Snow, tis true, not equal to that which lay over several weeks in the high, about the Beginning of October, in the parts about ye Euxine Sea, Nor to that which ye French Annals tell us kept falling for twenty Nine weeks together. Nor to several mentioned by Boethius, wherein vast numbers of people & of Cattel perished, nor to those that Strabo finds upon Caucasus & Rhodigius in Armenia. But yett such stances as may deserve to be remembered.

On the twentieth of last February there came on a Snow, which being added unto what had covered the ground a few days before, made a thicker mantle for our Mother than what was before. And ye storm with it was, for the following day, so violent as to make all communication between ye Neighbors everywhere to cease. People, for some hours, could not pass from one side of a street unto another, & ye poor Women, who happened in this critical time to fall into Trail, were put unto Hardships, which anon produced many odd stories for us.

But on ye Twenty-fourth day of ye Month came Pelion upon Ossa: Another Snow came on which almost buried ye Memory of ye former, with a Storm so ye Religious Assemblies throughout ye Country, on this Lord's Day, ye day wherein had never been seen before. The Indians, near an hundred years old, affirm that their Fathers had never told them of anything that equalled it.

Vast numbers of Cattel were destroyed in this Calamity. Whereof some there were, of ye Stranger sort, were found standing dead on their legs, as if they had been alive many weeks after, when ye Snow melted. And others had their eyes glazed over with the cold, at a rate, that being not far from ye Sea, their mistake of their way drowned them there. One gentleman, on whose farms were now lost above 1100 sheep, which with other Cattel were insured (shall I say) or innoved in the Snow, writes me word that there were two Sheep very singularly circumstanced.

For no less than Eight and Twenty days after the Storm, the people pulling out the Ruins of above 100 sheep, out of a Snow Bank, which lay 18 feet high, drifted over them there was two, found alive, which had been there all the while, and kept themselves alive by eating the wool of their own backs. And when they were taken out they shed their own Fleeces, but soon gott into good case again. Sheep were not ye only creatures that lived unaccountably for whole weeks without their usual sustenance. The Swine had a share with ye Sheep in strange survivals. A man had a couple of young Hogs, which he gave over for dead. But on the twenty-seventh day after their burial, they made their way out of a Snow-Bank, at the bottom of which they had found a little Tansy to feed upon. The Poultry as unaccountably survived as these: Hens were found alive after seven days; Turkeys were found alive after five and twenty days, buried in ye Snow, and at a distance from ye ground, and altogether destitute of anything to feed them. The number of creatures that kept up a Right spirit, shut up in snow for diverse weeks together, and were found alive after all, have yielded surprising stories to us.

The Wild Creatures of ye Woods, ye outgoings of ye Evening, made their Descent as well as they could in this time of scarcity for them toward ye Sea-side. A vast multitude of deer for ye same cause, taking ye same course, & ye Deep Snow Spoiling them for their own Defence which is to run, they became such a prey to their devourers, that it is thought not one in twenty escaped.

But here again occurred a Curiosity. These carnivorous Sharpers, & especially the Foxes, would make their Nocturnal visits to the Pons, where the people had their sheep defended from them. The poor ewes, big with young, were so terrified with the frequent Approaches of ye Foxes, & ye terror had such Impression upon them, that most of ye Lambs brought forth in the spring following, were of Monsieur Rainard's complexion, when ye Dam were either white or black. It is remarkable that immedi-

HANOVER.

A Serious Accident.

Fred H. Silver met with quite a serious accident last Friday. While hauling pulp wood from Howard's pond, the sled slewed around a sharp turn precipitating load, horses and driver, over the bank. The horses escaped unhurt but Mr. Silver cut a deep gash in his forehead, sprained his knee quite badly, and met with serious internal injuries. At this writing he is getting along as well as could be expected.

C. C. Billings' health is quite poorly.

A. G. Howe went to Virginia, Monday, where he is to make extensive repairs on the residence of Geo. A. Virgin.

Mrs. Allen Richardson slipped on the ice, Monday, breaking her left arm about two inches below the shoulder.

May Garth, teacher at Red Hill, was the guest of Myrtal Jones, Friday.

Miss Jordan went to Portland, Saturday, where she is to enter the Maine General hospital, to study to become a nurse.

A dance was held in Union hall, last Friday evening under the management of Oscar Dyke. Owing to the severe weather there was not a very large crowd present, but those who did attend report a very fine time. Music was furnished by Mrs. Maria Twitchell, Messrs. Wheelwright, Elmer Charles and Ed Howe, and an excellent supper of oysters and pastry was served in the lower hall at intermission.

WEST FRYEBURG.

A Painful Accident.

Charles Andrews met with a peculiar and painful accident while at work in the woods last week. The peavey which he held slipped, and the hook entered the flesh part of his leg, a few inches above the knee, cutting a gash requiring several stitches to close it. Alvin Head, of South Chatham, N. H., takes Mr. Andrews' place in woods and takes care of his teaming.

Thomas Hutchins contracted measles while attending Fryeburg academy, and was at his home at H. D. E. Hutchins' last week.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ballard, won the prize in a baby contest at Union hall one evening recently, the prize being some pieces in silver including a dozen spoons.

Mrs. S. E. Ballard had an attack of partial paralysis early this week. Mrs. E. E. Walker spent two days of last week assisting in the care of her grandmother during her illness. Notwithstanding her greatly advanced age, she is ninety years old, Mr. Ballard has recovered sufficiently to be able to sit up part of the time.

Ned Packard is gaining so it is thought he will not be obliged to go to the hospital, as it was thought at first of his illness.

A number of the woods crew of Upper camp in the Adirondacks, were home last week, because they were afraid there would be more timber cut than they could take care of with so little snow.

LYNCHVILLE.

Lumbering Business.

As lumbering business has been up hill business for nearly every one, we will speak of what L. H. Burnham is doing. We consider him a little ahead. He has so many logs on mountain to plain that he can adapt his work to the travelling, and he has had work for nearly every day this winter, and has a goodly lot of hard wood and pine hauled to the yard and lake. One hundred and eighty loads of pine have been taken from the stump and landed on the lake above his mill this last week by three two-horse teams drawn on two sleds each team. The teamsters who landed the timber were Linn Palmer, Phil McAllister and Eugene McKean.

Frank Mann and wife and Eugene Le-broke and wife called on Mrs. S. G. McAllister last Sabbath; also Mrs. Willis McAllister and children.

W. G. Rand of Boston and three other men interested in the Norway & Western Railroad called on L. H. Burnham the past week. We are longing to see the incoming train and hear the dong of the bell.

The school has begun and we miss the young teamsters, Millard and Carl Palmer, who drive a steer team to haul staves or go to North Watford or some other place as required. They are as handy as any man. Their ages are 12 and 11.

The Norway & Western Railroad Co. want 150 sticks of oak for piling. For sizes see ad in another column and address them at their Boston office. State price wanted.

HAMBURG!

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10

We shall place on our counters

Lot No. 1, 270 yds. Hamburg at 9c
" " 2, 240 " " " 12c
" " 3, 216 " " " 15c
" " 4, 81 " " " 25c

The above are great bargains which probably cannot be duplicated on account of labor troubles in St. Gaul.

In addition to these we shall show our regular line of new and choice patterns in matched sets, separate edges, beading, etc.

Come early if you wish some of the job lot.

Our great success with these lots last year, leads us to think this small one will last but a short time.

S. B. & Z. S. PRINCE,
